THE BOOK

Nanotechnology is the new nuclear — and someone has already weaponised it.

Dr. Michael Faris, the lead scientist at the Institute for Nanotechnology (IDN) in Los Angeles, is blackmailed by a shadowy network into building a doomsday nanotechnology, small enough to fit into the palm of your hand — and powerful enough to end a civilisation. What follows is a breakneck pursuit across the Middle East, China and Russia, with Faris caught between the operatives of a new UN agency, UNICON, the ambitions of IDN, and someone already several moves ahead of everyone involved.

NANO is Book One of Technopolis, adapted by the author from the original screenplay — a cinematic, briskly plotted thriller for readers of Michael Crichton, Daniel Suarez and Tom Clancy.

WHY STOCK NANO

- Franchise opening title. Book One of a planned series — a repeat-purchase proposition, not a standalone.
- Two editions, two covers. An International Edition and America's 250th Anniversary Edition, each with its own ISBNs, for market-specific display.
- Full trade terms. 55% wholesale discount on all print formats; International Edition supplied returnable in the US, UK, EU, Canada and Australia.
- Stocked and POD-ready. Live through Ingram, IngramSpark and Gardners with print-on-demand fulfilment — no minimum order, no dead stock risk.
- Author platform. Oxford-trained founder of Alpha1Media, in film since 1999, previously McKinsey, Reuters and the United Nations — backed by active press and social campaigns.

ABOUT THE AUTHOR

Talal Malik is the Founder, CEO and film writer-producer of Alpha1Media, a global media and entertainment firm developing high-concept international projects. He has presented on film, AI and financing at Berlinale, Lausanne and Cannes, and has been interviewed by Variety and Screen International; for the 75th Festival de Cannes he was the sole thought leader on the future of film for The Independent. He was trained at Pembroke College, University of Oxford — the college where J.R.R. Tolkien wrote The Lord of the Rings — and was chosen from 1,200 candidates for the Reuters Editorial Writing Program, an earlier alumnus of which was Ian Fleming. He has worked in the film industry since 1999, on productions including The World Is Not Enough (1999), V for Vendetta (2005) and Harry Potter and the Goblet of Fire (2005), before moving into producing, writing and advisory work. He is based in London.

MARKETING AND PUBLICITY SUPPORT

- National and international press release campaign at launch.
- Book trailer, blogger and podcast outreach programme.
- Multi-platform social campaign across the Alpha1 group accounts.
- Author available for signings, panels, festival and media appearances.
- Forthcoming in French, Spanish, German, Arabic, Mandarin Chinese and Russian.

SUGGESTED PLACEMENT

Shelf: fiction thriller and science fiction; strong candidate for airport, travel and front-of-store new-release fixtures.
Seasonal: America's 250th Anniversary Edition suits Independence Day and America 250 displays in US stores; the International Edition carries the neutral jacket for all other markets.
Regional: Middle East, China and Russia storylines give it added pull in GCC, UK and Asia-Pacific stores.
Reader comps: Michael Crichton, Daniel Suarez, Tom Clancy, Matthew Reilly.
